MANY TEACHERS.

Minneapolis Had Within Her Gates Monday Night Fully 15,000 Delegates.

THREE MEETINGS HELD

Papers Which Were Read Before the National Educational Convention Monday.

MANY NOTED PERSONS PRESENT

MINNEAPOLIS, July 9.—Minneapolis had last night within her gates 15,000 or more delegates to the National Educational Convention. Some of the largest delegations arrived last evening, and the total will probably reach the 20,000 mark when the delegates are all in. The meetings Monday and Tuesday were confined to the National Council, the Indian committee and the general sessions.

The cities in the race for the next convention so far are Boston, Portland, Me.; the North Pacific coast cities (which are working together), and Niagara Falls, N. Y. Gossip is already rife as to the next president of the association. But two names are yet mentioned—those of President Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, and Superintendent James A. Foshay, of Los Angeles.

The national council devoted its session to a consideration of the social aspects of education, the papers being by D. E. McClure, of Lansing, Mich.; John Dewey, of the University of Chicago; and Miss Anna Tolman Smith, United States Bureau of Education, Washington; Ossian H. Long, editor of the School Journal, of New York, opened the discussion

The Indian education section held a very interesting session, with addresses by United States Commissioner of Education W. T. Harris, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, New York; State Superintendent Alfred Bayliss, of Illinois, and others. Mr. Harris talked about the use of newspapers in the education of the Indian. Technical papers of practical value to the members of the section were read by H. B. Peairs. of the Haskell Institute, Kansas; J. C. Hart, of the Oneida School, Wisconsin; C. W. Crouse, Indian Agent at Fort Crouse, Arizona.

The directors of the National Educational Association met yesterday, with an attendance of fifty. The directorate includes one from each State, thirty life directors and the association officers. W. C. Martindale, of Detroit; one of the vice presidents, was in the chair. The report of Charles H. Keyes showed réceipts of $32.266 and disbursements of $29,979, which with last year's balance, leaves $8,174 on hand. The disbursements include $10,000 transferred to the permanent fund for investment. The trustees reported $98,000 in this fund, of which $84,000 is invested in mortgages and municipal and school bonds. The American Society of Religious Education presented a petition asking to be taken into affiliation, but it was laid on the table.

Yesterday afternoon was given over entirely to the general session at the Exposition building, where the addresses of welcome and responses were delivered. Governor S. R. VanSant, on behalf of the State, welcomed the association. J. W. Olsen, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the educational branch of the State Government, and Acting Mayor D. P. Jones welcomed the visitors to the city.

—Jerry Kelly, formerly of this place, has assumed charge of the Commercial Hotel at Altoona and on last Saturday evening it was thrown open to the public.

—Mr. W. Frank Bottorff, who was a native of Hublersburg, this county, died at his home in Lock Haven on Friday, July 4th, aged 37 years. Mr. Bottorff was a consistent member of the Reformed church and was highly respected by all his neighbors and friends.

—A new official directory of the local and long distant telephones of the United Telephone and Telegraph company is being distributed among the subscribers of that company. The directory includes the names of subscribers in Lock Haven, Bellefonte, Jersey Shore, Millheim, Montoursville, Muncy, Newberry, Snow Shoe, State College, Centre Hall and Williamsport and many smaller towns.

SUNDAY'S BIG STORM.

Cloudburst Does Great Damage in This Vicinity—Heaviest Storm in Many Years.

One of the most severe rain storms which has occured within the recollection of our oldest citizens visited Bellefonte yesterday. The morning had been exceedingly warm and the sun shining brightly, but about noon the clouds commenced to make their appearance and the ominous sounds of distant thunder indicated a storm, but not until it was upon us did we realize its magnitude. The rain fell in perfect torrents, and the sewers proving insufficient to carry off the water, the streets presented the appearance of rivers, and during the continuance of the deluge, which lasted about half an hour, the air was livid with lightning, which, with the rolling, crashing sounds of heaven's artillery, terrified the timid ones, and many a prayer of thankfulness was offered when the dreadful scene was over, and the natural condition of affairs resumed.

While we were having this storm a rain cloud burst above Axe Mann which washed and destroyed everything within reach. The water poured down the hollow with resistless force, carrying everything before it. When the flood reached the residence of Charles Cruse it had a chance to spread, covering his beautiful lawn with all manner of debris. Boiling spring was completely filled with rock and mud. The bridge across the turnpike was lifted from its position and from there down along Logan's Branch the lowlands were entirely covered with water. At the Nittany Iron Works the railroad bridge belonging the Company was damaged to such an extent that no cars can be taken in or out until it is repaired. Fortunately no lives were lost, but several hundred dollars will be required to repair damages.

NOTES.

The entrance to the sewer just completed last week, at the corner of Spring and Lamb streets, was completely washed away, flooding all the cellars of the houses at the Electric Light Works and washing away several tons of R. B. Taylor's coal.

Along Bishop street gutters were torn out and cellars filled with water.

Howard street was badly washed and a great amount of gravel and debris piled in front of the Hale residence on Allegheny street.

Linn street suffered but little damage, although several of the wooden gutters were washed out and about two feet of water found its way into J. M. Dale, Esq.,'s cellar.

Almost all the cellars along Thomas street had their full compliment of water and mud carried into them.

The creek rose about three feet inside of an hour, and from the color of the water would imagine there would be very little soil left on the farms in Spring township.

James Williams, of Axe Mann, by heroic efforts managed to get his pigs out of their pens just in time to save them from drowning.

Lightning struck the house of Mrs. Cruse on Linn street, tearing away a large portion of the tin spouting, but fortunately doing no further damage.

Milesburg came in for its share of damage which consisted of gardens being destroyed and cellars filled with water.

Although Charles Cruse suffered more than anyone else at Axe Mann, that which he felt most keenly was the loss of his Sunday dinner. He had the spring chicken, ice cream, etc., in the spring-house and the whole business was washed away.

The teachers and scholars at Pleasant View Sunday School could not get near their building on account of the high water: the result was, no school.

For Presbyterian Men Only.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church after a week's hard work have cleaned and renovated the chapel that it looks like new. The carpet was taken up and cleaned, the walls brushed down, the paint washed and the floor scrubbed, and they give notice to the male members of the congregation that there is no longer excuse for not attending prayer meeting, as the cleaning was done in a sanitary manner, by experts, and there is not the least trace of microbes to be found in the building. After this notice there will doubtless be a crowded house.

—Thomas Longee died Sunday night at his home at Howard aged 70 years. He leaves a wife and the following children: Mrs. Thomas Kessinger, of Lewistown; Charles, in the Philippine Islands; George, Curt, Joseph and Miss Maud, at home.

WIND AND RAIN!

Caused Great Destruction in Western New York.

WIRES ARE IN VERY BAD SHAPE

The Loss Will Reach Into the Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Worth of Property.

ONE PERSON LOST HER LIFE

BUFFALO, July 7.—A terrific wind and rain storm swept over Western New York at an early hour yesterday. Rivers and creeks rose rapidly, overflowing their banks and sweeping away houses and barns and live stock. The loss will reach into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Telegraph and telephone wires are down and communication with small towns in Wyoming, Niagara and Cattaraugus counties is difficult to establish. This city was not in the path of the storm.

A dispatch from Arcade says the flood at that place claimed one victim and did many thousand dollars' damage to property. Minnie Loper, who kept a bakery on the bank of the creek, was drowned early in the day. The downpour and the cloudburst above the village turned the creek into a torrent. The water rose very rapidly and was several feet deep on the low lands before anyone realized the danger. Miss Loper's bake shop was swept out into the stream, but it had not gone far before it fell apart. Miss Loper's body was recovered.

There were many narrow escapes. At Yorkshire, two miles below Arcade, the approaches to the bridge were washed away but the bridge is standing. Miles of roadway are so gullied or buried in debris that they will have to be rebuilt. At Sandusky, a few miles from Arcade, it is reported that two houses were washed away. From everywhere comes report of live stock killed. The loss to individuals will be very high and the loss to the towns from the destruction of bridges and roadbeds will also be high.

CORNING, N. Y., July 7.—Heavy and continuous rains fell here and through the southern tier yesterday and Saturday. At Beaverdam there was a water spout which did much harm to crops and the New York Central railroad track was damaged.

The Erie railroad has had great difficulty from washouts east and west of here and most of the Susquehanna division was tied up until noon yesterday. The greatest difficulty was at Chemung and Canisteo. Several trains were sent over the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road to Buffalo from here. The New York Central suffered greatly from washouts on the Cowanesque branch.

Our School Directors.

For the information of the public we give the names of the school directors of the Bellefonte school district. They are Messrs. George W. Rees, D. F. Fortney, W. C. Heinle, A. C. Mingle, H. P. Harris, John P. Harris, W. H. Crissman, Darius Waite and H. C. Quigley.

These men accepted the positions, many of them working hard to secure them, but in looking over the annual report of D. O. Etters, supervising principal, which will be published in a few days, we find that during the last year seven of them visited the schools, two of them not going near them, and of the seven only two or three of them made but casual calls. That our schools are in such a prosperous condition is owing to the attention of these two or three directors and the efforts of the teachers.

We expect considerable from our common schools and they should receive a great deal attention from those in whose hands their interests are placed, and we cannot comprehend how anyone so closely allied to them as the directors could fail to such an extent in his duty to the taxpayers and pupils as not to go near them during an entire year. Doubtless those who have been neglecting their duties will say that it is none of our business whether they visit the schools or not. We will say, however, that it is a little of our business, and a great deal the business of those who elected them and expected them to be faithful to their trust.

We expect in the future to devote considerable space in the interest of our schools, and will not hesitate to call attention to what we believe the people should know. Our people are taxed heavily to keep up these institutions and have a perfect right to know everything connected with them. Nothing in our columns must be construed as personal. We only know them and hold them responsible as a school board.

Meeting of Council.

The meeting of Council Monday night was one of more than ordinary interest to our tax payers. There was considerable business transacted and a great deal that should have been considered, not being presented. All the members of the council were present with the exception of Mr. Mallory, Col. W. Fred Reynolds presiding. After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and adopted, the president called for report of Committees. Mr. Derstine, chairman of Street Committee, reported that during the three weeks past, sewers and crossings had been repaired and the grass on the streets had been cut, (we always thought the Borough was being farmed, and we venture to say, with the manner in which the present council is managing affairs there will be more grass to cut next year). He also reported progress on the projected improvements on Water street, and informed the president that it was not convenient for the solicitor to submit a report at this time but that he would do so, some time in the future, mean while our merchants, and business men down town, will be compelled to wait, for this much needed improvement, but in order that the school children attending the brick school house, might not stub their toes in going to school next fall, the Council ordered a crossing on Bishop street to be repaired immediately. The report of the Water Committee, through Mr. Garrity, chairman, was very interesting. He presented a schedule of prices to be charged for water, for the ensuing year, which had been prepared, we believe, by the watch dog of the water department. This schedule, in our opinion, is most unjust, and discriminates against those who use water for mechanical purposes, the poor washer woman, and those who are least able to pay, but as we will have more to say on this subject in the near future will not dwell on it now. At this point Mr. Knisely in his suave manner made inquiry as to the whereabouts of our Borough Engineer, and intimated that we should have one who would be within reach, at least part of the time, as several of our citizens have been waiting for an official grade before laying new side walks. The Nuisance Committee, through Mr. Cunningham, reported that the cows were running at large and committing depredations in West Ward. Why not herd these cows in some of our streets? It would be cheaper than cutting the grass.

There was no mention made of the filthy condition of the reservoir, the committee being too busy making the new schedule to take up such a trifling matter. The crowning event of the evening in which every one of them demonstrated the fact that he was a Napoleon of finance, was when Mr. Potter stated that they were now ready to pay $25000 of the borough indebtness, and reaching into his pocket brought forth what we supposed to be the sinking fund, that has been accumulating for years, but we doomed to disappointment, for instead of being part of that fund, it was a resolution authorizing the council to increase the bonded indebtedness $25,000 in order to lift sundry outstanding orders and notes, and instead of our indebtedness being $95,000 it will be $120,000. The resolution was adopted unanimously, every member answering aye as his name was called by the clerk. This puts the financial condition of our Borough just where it was fifteen years ago, and still our taxes are becoming higher every year. The outlook is indeed gloomy, and it is no wonder that our town does not prosper. If we had permanent improvements to show for the vast outlay of money it would be different, but it appears that everything is spent for temporary repairs. There is something wrong; what is it?

Col. W. Fred Reynolds Entertains the Bishop.

The Board of Missions of the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania were entertained by Col. Reynolds, at the Nittany Rod and Gun Club Tuesday evening. The body consisted of Bishop Talbot, W. R. Butler, of Mauch Chunk, secretary; four Arch Deacons, and one lay representative from each of the four arch deaconries. Col. Reynolds represents this arch deaconry, and he took them to Hecla Tuesday afternoon in a special train, with the vestry of St. John's Episcopal church, and after a supper given by him, the business of the mission was transacted.

—Frank Montgomery of Montgomery & Co., must have heard of the temperature of our office for just in the nick of time he stepped in with two fans thus saving us from total collapse.

—We noticed the familiar figure of "Brack" Powell on the Picnic grounds at Hecla Friday, and marvleous to relate, he was sober as a judge.

TO SEE FRIENDS.

President Mitchell Says That His Visit in New York Was for This Purpose.

WOULD NOT DISCUSS STRIKE

In the Meantime at Strike Headquarters the Fact of His Absence Causes Much Interest.

THE ENTIRE COAL BELT QUIET

NEW YORK, July 8.—President Mitchell, who arrived in the city Sunday night, said Monday that the purpose of his visit was to see some friends who are to sail for Europe today.

"Is it your purpose to see certain people with a view of settling the strike or for the purpose of effecting a compromise?" was asked.

"I shall decline to discuss the strike," replied Mr. Mitchell.

Mr. Mitchell spent the day in company with H. M. Taylor, of Braidwood, and Coal City, Ill. Mr. Taylor is a soft coal operator and he said that he had telegraphed Mr. Mitchell at Wilkesbarre to meet him in New York. He denied that their meeting had anything whatever to do with the strike of the anthracite miners or with the strike situation as regards the soft coal miners or with the approaching convention of the United Mine Workers at Indianapolis, to decide the question of a general strike. Mr. Taylor and Mr. Mitchell both asserted that they were together simply as boyhood friends and were enjoying each other's society after seeing friends off for Europe.

Mr. Mitchell denied a report that he came to consult with labor leaders here in regard to the advisability of the soft coal miners breaking their contracts with the operators to enter upon a general strike. He reiterated his statement that the anthracite miners would stay out until they won and he said the leaders unanimously stood for that course. Mr. Mitchell said he would leave for Wilkesbarre this evening.

WILKESBARRE, July 8.—With President John Mitchell in New York, and all the other mine leaders at Nanticoke attending the annual convention of district No. 1, strike headquarters was an extremely quiet place today. The ninth week of the suspension of anthracite coal mining shows no change in the situation, there being not the slightest indication that either party to the controversy is ready to quit. The visit of the miners' chief to New York continues to arouse interest. No word of his movements in the metropolis has been received here, and there is much speculation as to what caused him to go there. Conditions in and about the collieries remain unchanged, excepting that the heavy rains of the last few days have increased the amount of water somewhat in many of the mines. Mining superintendents do not fear much trouble from this, most of them expressing their confidence that with a dry spell the pumps will rapidly reduce it to its normal level. The entire coal belt was generally very quiet, very few men congregating in the vicinity of the collieries. The large force of coal and iron policemen; estimated at 3,000, are kept constantly on duty for any emergency. There were several arrests made in this valley Monday of persone accused of intimidating alleged "Unfair" workmen, but the arrests were made so quietly, however, as to cause no disturbance of any kind.

The Undine Picnic.

The Picnic of the Undine Fire Company, held at Hecla Park Friday, was a complete success in evey particular. The crowd of visitors, numbering about five thousand and it was a typical picnic day. The weather, which for several days preceding having been wet and disagreeable, it seemed as if the people would be deterred from attending, but the sun came out nice and bright in the morning, which revived the enthusiasm of those who had intended spending the day at the Park. The trains from Bellefonte and Mill Hall being crowded to their utmost capacity. The Committee having the matter in charge consisted of Jacob S. Knisely. D. Paul Fortney, E. G. Gehret, J. H. Houser, H. G. Brown and W. H. Cunningham, and they were indefatigable in their efforts to give every one a good time, and they succeeded in doing so. By way of amusements there were two bands, the Zion and the Mill Hall, which furnished lots of fine music. There was also a game of base ball in the afternoon, and the merry go-round, which is a source of amusement to every one, and there was the wheel of fortune, this was going the entire day, and is very interesting for the onlooker. It is not exactly a gambling device, but all the same, you pay your money and take your chances. In the evening the dancing platform was occupied by the young people, who evidently enjoyed tripping the light fantastic. As far as the writer could see the best of order prevailed. Few drunken men being observed, for all of which the Committee is to be commended, and we congratulate them upon the financial success of the picnic, which netted several hundred dollars. The Central R. R. Co. was equal to the occasion and handled the large crowd without delay or accident of any kind, the trains running regularly and on time.

NOTES.

Banker, Maurice Jackson, acted as umpire at the base ball game.

Would-be congressman, Clement Dale, was making himself solid with the boys.

Orie Ishler and Burt Robb were very enthusiastic spectators at the ball game.

The Salvation Army was on the ground and held prayer meeting in the afternoon.

Jake Knisely handled the cash, and towards evening, it was about all he wanted to carry.

As a lemonade man, Harry Yeager excels, although the color of the drink was a little deceiving.

W. T. Speer was acting in the role of detective, doing some fine work. He is a rival of Joe Rightnour.

Miss Rebecca Cole, one of the compositors in the NEWS office, found a lady's pocket book, containing quite a large sum of money Friday at Hecla Park. She gave it to W. H. Cunningham, one of the Undine committee. The owner can recover it from him.

The chap wearing a bright red coat trimmed with green, white duck trousers, white hat and patent leather shoes was very much in evidence on the Fourth, both in Bellefonte and at the Undine Picnic. The style is new to us in the country and is rather striking.

—The Bellefonte Lime company is putting in a roller screen and making other improvements about their plant at Salona.

—A horse valued at $100 belonging to Jerry Lutz fell into the washers at Red Bank Monday morning and was ground to pieces.

—Word has been received that Miss Annie, daughter of James W. Boal, died at the home of her parents at Port Carbon, Penn., after a lingering illness. The remains will be brought to Bellefonte, reaching here at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Interment in Union cemetery.

—Leodora May Breon died of consumption at the home of brother-in-law, H. H. Leitzell, at Millheim, Tuesday morning, aged 17 years and 8 months. She was the daughter of the late Valentine Breon and Mrs. Sarah J. Breon. Funeral services were held at the house at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Interment at the Cross Roads church in George's valley.

—Hon. James Schofield is in receipt of two letters from friends in Renovo inclosing checks of fifteen dollars each with the request that he deduct three dollars for harness and remit to them in cash the balance. As Hon. Schofield will no doubt have a great many communications of the same character he has opened a special account at Jackson, Hastings & Co.'s bank to be drawn upon for sweet charity alone, and equipped himself with a big check book which he will use in helping deserving "beats." He is just as big hearted as he is easy.

THE SAVING OF PETER

By EUGENIE UHLRICH

Copyright, 1901, by Eugenie Uhlrich

Mrs. Minna Schmitt stood at the kitchen door of Merriam's big house and looked at the changing west. Every moment the light was growing fainter and duller, and still Peter Burns did not come in to the supper that had been waiting for him over two hours. This was strange of Peter, and it would have been not only strange but suspicious of anybody else after having been "'lectioneering" all afternoon with the old judge, Mrs. Merriam's husband.

Mrs. Schmitt did not like the judge. The worst men in her eyes are those who always seem so nice and pleasant to everybody and between times get drunk and abuse their wives. If such men were only mean all the time, people would not blame their wives for everything that goes wrong, as the village did Mrs. Merriam when she had the old judge bound over to keep the peace. Since that time the judge had been obliged to live at the village hotel, and Mrs. Merriam was left in the big house. Now when the judge wanted to see Mrs. Merriam he drove up to the gate and whistled for her. Then Mrs. Merriam put on her best dress and went driving with him, for the judge was really very pleasant when he was in a "good temper," as Mrs. Merriam herself would have put it. Every evening she made Peter drive down to the hotel to see that the judge got to bed without his boots. The judge paid those of his bills that he could out of his practice, and Mrs. Merriam paid her own out of the place and the "summer guests." Sometimes she paid an odd one of the judge's.

Minna could not see but what it was much better so, though whenever she went to the village she had to hear something about women who wear the "pants" and like remarks, which passed for wit thereabout. But Minna, who had had a sharp and happily short married experience of her own, loftily ignored these supposed jokes, for her German tongue was too slow to risk answers. The delectable Peter himself, who made possible the harmony of the present conditions, was Irish. He drove the judge home one day when the judge's driving was a bit uncertain, even for a horse that could find the way home alone. Peter put up the horse and looked after things that evening, and he had been doing so ever since. Now he was the one person who was able to travel cheerfully the sometimes slippery path between the inn and the house at all times.

And still he did not come in. Minna bethought herself that she ought to go over to the stables. Tomorrow would be Sunday, and Peter often needed a stitch put in somewhere. It was not in Minna's quick fingers to see any one untidy on Sunday if she could help it. So she went over to the stables—not that she was curious or, even worse, worried. Things did look queer. The road wagon was standing in the driveway, the cushion left shiftlessly on the seat, and Peter's best coat lying across it. After a moment Minna's sharp ear heard deep breathing, and there on a bench inside the door lay Peter, fast asleep. Now Minna could not believe that any man would go fast asleep without his supper unless there were something wrong. But she was used to doing things, not standing and looking at them. She took the cushion off the seat and, along with the coat, carried it into the carriage shed. Something hard in one of Peter's pockets struck her hand, and she knew it at once for a bottle. It was almost empty, and the contents were not to be mistaken. Then she tried the other pocket. Behold, another bottle!

"That camel of a judge," she muttered. "He has five stomachs, and he does not rest until everybody is like him." The zeal to save woke in her, and she did not ask herself whether she had that fine zeal for every wavering soul or only for Peter's. She took the bottles and hurried to the kitchen with them.

Mrs. Merriam met her at the kitchen door. "Where is Peter?" she asked. Minna marched past her and tragically held up the two bottles in front of her.

"Minna," gasped that lady, "what—what have you been doing?"

"I?" screamed Minna. "Peter, you mean!"

"Peter! Oh, Peter, Peter, you, too, Peter!" wailed Mrs. Merriam as she sank down in a chair. "But wait; this is the first time, and there is still hope for him. I have it"— And she hurried to her medicine shelf and came back with a bottle with some brown stuff in it. "This will make him wish he'd never touched any election whisky in his life. Run and slip them back, Minna."

Minna obeyed and then milked the complaining cows, grown restless waiting for Peter, and when everything was well done she went up to her room and cried a bit. In the morning she was up earlier than usual. There seemed no use in waiting for Peter to drive her to early mass this morning. She trudged along the damp road from which the late August sun had not yet drawn the dew, and her feet somehow felt very heavy.

"It is a damp morning," she said, looking against the shining mist. Here and there a dead leaf fluttered in front of her. The sun was soft and warm and the green of the trees deep and dark in the glistening moisture, and yet it all kept her thinking that winter was near and that she herself was thirty-five. As she passed a little house on the road where old Anse, the choreman, lived with about a dozen grandchildren, she heard a child's fretful cry. "Must be it's sick. I'll have to ask Anse."

When Minna came out of the church, she had a start that must surely have given her a nervous shock had she been of less hardy fiber, for there was Peter waiting as usual.

"An' why didn't you wait for me, Mrs. Schmitt?" he asked.

"It was a good morning to walk," said Minna most quietly.

He helped her into the cart, and then he said slowly after they were started, "It was a very hot day yesterday." And he switched the lines to chase the flies off the backs of the horses. "A very hot day."

But Minna was silent. After a little Peter went on: "We went over a turrible lot of country yesterday, the judge an' I. I'm thankful we had a right good supper over at Harneck's, so, bein' tired an' restin' me a minute, I fell asleep. It's too bad you milked the cows an' did that work."

"Oh, that didn't make much difference," said Minna. But there seemed to be something that did, so after a bit Peter went on again:

"The judge is a turrible man to drink an' treat all roun' when he goes 'lectioneerin'. He gimme a couple o' bottles to treat the boys for him, but I met old Anse in the road this mornin', an' he told me one of the children was sick an' he didn't feel very well himself, an' so I gave him the rest."

Peter had the flattering sense that he was clearing himself without admitting the suspicion, which is really a very delicate thing to do. So he was the more surprised to see Minna jump around in her seat and fairly scream at him:

"You did what?"

"Gave it to old Anse for the child."

"Oh," she moaned, "for the sick child! It'll kill it."

"But it was good stuff," said Peter blandly. "The judge paid a dollar a bottle for the bit of a bottle."

"But it's bad; I know it's bad. Hurry up and tell Anse it's bad." Peter only stared at her and almost held the horses at a standstill. "Hurry up," she said and rattled the whip in its socket. At this ominous and unaccustomed sound the horses plunged forward so suddenly that Peter had to pull them to their haunches to keep them out of the ditch.

"I'll not drive a step, I'll tell you," he said, "until I know what for," for Peter could not stand bothering the horses when he was driving. Then Minna began to cry, and Peter as well as the horses was bothered.

"But, Mrs. Schmitt," he said, "sure, an' you're always such a sensible woman"—

"What's the use to be a sensible woman when a man's so foolish? It's all your fault." And Minna cried more.

"Well, then, if it is I'll be drivin' on," said Peter. "An' you'll be tellin' me how it is that it's my fault." Then he lifted the reins, but he did not start the horses. Minna looked over the fields, while the tears rolled down her cheeks. Then she stole a glance at Peter's face, calm and masculinely unrelenting. There came a trot behind her. McGolrick's mules were coming up the road behind them, and she and Peter standing still like that! So she began hurriedly:

"I was afraid you'd get like the judge, too, so we thought if you got good and sick you'd never do it again, and we put some ipecac in it, a whole ounce"—

"In what?" asked the hyperinnocent Peter.

"In the bottles of whisky," gulped Minna.

Peter whistled, and the horses flew. "Ipecac's bitter, isn't it?" But Minna did not notice, she was crying so hard. "Guess I better tell Anse that it's cheap 'lectioneerin' whisky an' the missus will send him somethin' better." Minna smiled so gratefully that Peter fell to wondering what he could do next to please her. When he came out of Anse's, he was chuckling. "The baby's all right, but Anse is havin' a time." Whereupon Minna giggled hysterically.

To make sure Minna herself took the basket and the port wine which Mrs. Merriam sent. When she came back, she walked rather slowly up the driveway, trying to decide whether she should stop and tell Peter. When she came to the stable door, Peter was pitching straw for bedding. He did not seem to be getting much on his fork, and presently he looked up as if seeing her there were the most unexpected happening. He pulled his hat down and came toward her. Leaning against the doorpost, he regarded the prongs of his pitchfork intently. About that time Minna found her basket handle very interesting, and she began to rub her forefinger thoughtfully up and down its strands.

"The baby's all right, Peter," she said after awhile. Peter looked at her meditatively as if somehow she were saying something else.

"Mrs. Schmitt," he said then, "I've been thinkin' about how worried you got about them bottles. It's kind o' nice to think people care enough to worry about you. Now, I've been thinkin' there might be nicer things to take than ipecac, an' sometimes it's the nice things that are the best for a man, don't you think so?"

Peter stopped and dug his pitchfork into the ground. Minna's literal German mind had become unwary.

"What would you take, then, Peter?"

"Well, now, Minna, if 'twere left to me I'd take you."

In spite of Mrs. Merriam, who pointed out precedent and evidence to prove that Minna had eternally lowered her opinion, Minna agreed with Peter just to save him, to be sure.

BUSINESS AND HOMES.

The Cause of the Trolley Car and the Street Railway.

On one point the American is determined—he will not live near his work, says Charles M. Skinner in the Atlantic. You shall see him in the morning, one of sixty people in a car built for twenty-four, reading his paper, clinging to a strap, trodden, jostled, smirched, thrown into harrowing relations with men who drink whisky, chew tobacco, eat raw onions and incontinently breathe, and after thirty minutes of this contact, with the roar of the streets in his ears, with languid clerks and pinguid market women leaning against him, he arrives at his office. The problems of his homeward journey in the evening will be still more difficult, because, in addition to the workers, the cars must carry the multitude of demoiselles who shop and go to matinees.

To many men and women of business a seat is an undreamed of luxury. Yet they would be insulted if one were to ask why they did not live over their shops, as Frenchmen do, or back of them, like Englishmen. It is this uneasy instinct of Americans, this desire of their families to separate industrial and social life, that makes the use of the trolley car imperative, and the street railway in this manner widens the life and dominion of the people. It enables them to distribute themselves over wider spaces and unwittingly to symbolize the expansiveness of the nation.

Heroic Courtesy.

A French writer on "The Revolution, the Empire and the Restoration" cites an amusing instance of what he calls heroic courtesy. Percy, Lord Beverly, invited to dine with him a marquis who was one of the most valiant soldiers of the army of Conde. Wishing to honor his guest and the cause which he served, that of the French king, the English peer ordered his butler to bring him a bottle of fine wine 100 years ago, "a ray of sun shut in crystal." He opened it carefully and offered a glass to the marquis, saying, "If you deem it worthy the honor, will you drink in this wine the health of the king?"

The marquis tasted the wine. "How do you like it?" asked the host. "Exquisite," replied the marquis. "Then," said Lord Beverly, "finish the glass. Only in a full glass can one drink the health of so great and so unfortunate a king." Without hesitation the marquis did as he was bidden. Only when the Englishman tasted the wine did he learn that what he had forced on his guest was castor oil.

At John Knox's Grave.

The guidebooks unite in telling the visitor in Edinburgh to see the grave of John Knox. It is situated in Parliament square and is marked by a small rectangular slab of stone sunk in the cobblestone paving of the street, with the chiseled inscription, "J. K. 1573." But it is odds against even the acute tourist that he finds the great reformer at once, for only five feet away from the holy ground there is a similar sunken slab, and many times a day parties of tourists may be seen approaching on tiptoe the second stone and bending over it with keen interest only to read, "Wilking Patent Hydrant," and find themselves face to face with the water supply system of a modern town instead of the bones of the eminent clergyman.

Polite Diner—It is as I suspected, and, being a gentleman, I shall not insult you by offering you money. Perhaps at some time I may be able to reciprocate your courtesy. Till then farewell.

HER CARRIAGE LUXURY.

It Doesn't Last Long, but It Fills Her With Exquisite Joy.

"Of course," said the New York young woman who earns her own living though a "natural born lady," "I can't afford to ride in carriages, and ordinarily I get around in the street cars, but there is a moment or two in my life when I rise superior to common things and take to wings.

"I have some friends who are able to live at the Waldorf, and I go there to see them once or twice a month. But do I go in the cars? Never. I come down from home in the cars, but at Thirty-third street and Broadway I get out and interview a cabby at the stand there. I always pick out the nicest looking turnout, and I offer the driver 50 cents to drive me to the Waldorf He looks at me as if I were daffy, but I tell him I know what I am about, and if he wants to earn 50 cents in about two minutes he has the opportunity.

"He smiles and tells me to get in, and I order him to drive up to the Thirty-third street entrance with a whirl and a dash. There are always two or three flunkies there, and it does make me feel too good for anything just to swing into the curb and have the crowd of them simply fall over themselves to wait on me and bow me in.

"It is all over in a very few seconds, but such exquisite pleasure as I get out of it couldn't, in the nature of mortal things, be of long continuance. The human system couldn't stand it."—New York Herald.

How Wine Judges Keep Sober.

If you have ever gone into a wine merchant's office and sampled different vintages, says the Philadelphia Ledger, you will have observed that the dealer never swallows the wine he puts into his mouth, but holds it there for a time while he lightly breathes through his nose. His palate tells him whether the wine is rough or smooth, but his sense of smell detects its aroma and is largely depended on to determine its quality. Of course it is the brain to which the smell is communicated that is really instrumental in fixing values, and as the effect on the brain is only momentary a great deal of wine may be sampled in this way without ill effects, but when the wine is permitted to pass into the stomach the fumes which arise from it continue to assail the brain as long as the liquor remains there in its orignal state and if taken in large quantities results in muddling the brain.

The Legion of Honor.

The red ribbon which superseded the titular distinction of pre-Napoleonic days has rarely been given to women, but it has a feminine side for all that. Napoleon, after Austerlitz, founded three splendid educational establishments for the daughters of the decorated. Most of the women who have been admitted to the order have been superintendents of these establishments. Marie Laurent was honored not as an actress, but as president of one of these institutions. An exception was made in the case of the late Rosa Bonheur, upon whom the cross of the Legion was conferred in 1865. Mme. de Stael's witticisms at the expense of messieurs les honores contributed to the causes of her enforced exile.

Leominster's Old Ducking Stool.

In the old Priory church of Leominster is a very interesting specimen of the old cucking or ducking stool, a universal mode of punishment of scolds, scandal mongers and women with too long a tongue. It was also inflicted on brewers and bakers, etc., transgressing the law, who in such a stool were immersed over head and ears in stercore (stinking water). This mode of punishment dates back to Saxon times, and the Leominster specimen was the last used in England of which we have any record in 1809. Several other specimens still exist about the country, as at Montgomery, Warwick, Fordwich and Leeke.—Travel.

Hedgehogs.

Hedgehogs are very strong in the water, swimming with ease against a rapid stream, and with their muscular claws they turn up the nests of trout or salmon and make a goodly haul therefrom. They will breast a very rapid stream, and cold water, as near the freezing point as may be, seems to have no terror for them. The eggs of the salmonidæ are a welcome prey to nearly every animal that will face water. Aquatic birds, rats (both house and water), hedgehogs, beetles and their larvæ, the so called fresh water shrimp, are deadly foes.—London Opinion.

A Shattered Poem.

"Beautiful, beautiful silken hair!" Philip murmured fondly, toying lovingly with one of her nut brown tresses. Power of Gems on Bad Eyes.

The ruby was considered good for derangement of the liver as well as for bad eyes. The sapphire and emerald were also credited with properties which rendered them capable of influencing ophthalmic disorders, and there is a superstitious belief that serpents are blinded by looking at the latter stone.

MAN AND MARRIAGE.

Sage Advice About Methods Before and After the Ceremony.

In "Her Royal Highness Woman" Max O'Rell gives some very sage advice to men as to what they should and should not do both before and after marriage. The following extracts will be of interest to readers:

Never marry a woman richer than you, one taller than you or one older than you. Be always gently superior to your wife in fortune, in size and in age, so that in every possible way she may appeal to you for help or protection, either through your purse, your strength or your experience in life. Marry her at an age that will always enable you to play with her all the different characteristic parts of a husband—a chum, a lover, an adviser, a protector and just .. tiny suspicion of a father.

However ill you may speak or think of women, you will always find a woman able to do it better than you.

Never let your ladylove see you without a collar—no, not even the very wife of your bosom. A man's head without a collar is like a bouquet without a holder.

Never let her see you asleep. Maybe you sleep with your mouth open. If you are married, let your wife sleep first. When you are quite sure she is off, let yourself go, and be careful to wake up first in the morning.

Bismarck on Champagne.

Years ago, when Baron Hengelmuller was assistant secretary of the Austrian embassy at Berlin, Bismarck gave a dinner to which the baron was invited. All the guests except Von Hengervar drank champagne, and Bismarck, noting the young man's abstinence, asked the reason therefor.

"I have not yet earned the right so to indulge," was the reply.

"Ah, that will not do," remarked Bismarck; "it is allotted to every ablebodied man in this world to consume in his lifetime 10,000 bottles of champagne. So you should begin now lest you fail to secure your just portion."

"If 10,000 bottles be the allotment for the ordinary man," responded the young diplomatist, bowing to the Iron Chancellor, "your excellency, being an extraordinary man, should have double allowance, and I therefore take great pleasure in awarding my share to you."

"I thank you," Bismarck replied, "but permit me to inform you that without waiting for your grand renunciation I have already passed the 20,000 mark."—Saturday Evening Post.

She'll Sing Hereafter.

A charming young lady of Kensington who glories in the possession of a wealth of bright auburn colored hair is the teacher of a Sunday school class. On a recent Sabbath the rector made the announcement of a hymn to be sung and, rising, waved his hands, and the organ pealed forth.

"Now," said he, "ready—sing."

A small and precocious youth in the young woman's class said:

"Why don't you sing, Miss Frisbee?"

"Me? Oh, I never sing," replied the teacher, smiling her prettiest.

"But," exclaimed the boy, "the minister says you must. Didn't he just say 'Now, Reddy, sing?'"

Smelling salts and numerous other restoratives had to be used to bring the teacher out of her faint.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Choleric Versus Quiet Natures.

Clarendon, says The Schoolmaster, made careful observation when he wrote: "Angry and choleric men are as ungrateful and unsociable as thunder and lightning, being in themselves all storm and tempests; but quiet and easy natures are like air weather, welcome to all and acceptable to all men; they gather together what the others disperse and reconcile all whom the others incense; as they have the good will and the good wishes of all other men, so they have the full possession of themselves, have all their own thoughts at peace and enjoy quiet and ease in their own fortune, how strait soever it may be."

Honest Praise.

An honest compliment was that paid to M. de Vendome, who, while commanding the French army in Italy, dispatched a young nobleman to announce to his master the victory which he had gained at Suzzara. The latter, while attempting to describe the battle, became several times much confused in his narrative, when, although the king preserved his gravity, the Duchess of Burgundy, who was present, laughed so heartily that at last the young gentleman said, "Sire, it is easier for M. de Vendome to win a battle than for me to describe it."

Our Fears.

It is not what a thing is, but what we think it is, that frightens us. A man walks within an inch of death without knowing it and therefore without trembling, and then his hair stands on end at some empty noise as harmless as the buzzing of a fly.

BUSINESS MEN FLEECED.

A Slick Tongued Individual Obtains Money by Means of Forged Checks.

On Saturday evening a well dressed individual answering to the name of George Heller, succeeded in working three forged checks on business men of this place and later made good his escape. The checks were all signed Abraham Miller, the name of our good friend, County Commissioner Miller.

Wm. M. McClure, James Schoffield and John Olewine were the parties victimized.

About half past eight the man walked into the harness shop of Wm. McClure and expressed a desire to purchase a breast collar and traces. The goods amounted to three dollars and the stranger proffered a check signed by "Abraham Miller." Mr. McClure asked the man if it was County Commissioner Miller's check and the later responded that it was, whereupon Mr. McClure gave him $12.00 in money on the check. The man then left saying he would call for the goods later.

After the man had gone out Mr. McClure began to suspect something was wrong as he remembered that Mr. Miller generally signed his name "Abram V. Miller." He at once started out and meeting C. F. Cook and Moses Montgomery asked them in regard to the the matter, both of whom informed him that the check was probably a forgery.

He then searched the town over for Mr. Heller, but that gentleman had vanished.

Mr. Heller however, was not idle, for while Mr. McClure was hunting him he was still working the forged check racket with good results to himself. He went into John Olewine's hardware store, bought a keg of nails and casually asked that they cash a small check of "Abraham Miller's" for fifteen dollars which Mr. Olewine very cheerfully did. The price of the nails was $3.00 which left $12.00 in cash for Mr. Heller. We do not speak authoritively but it is confidently believed that later on Mr. Heller opened a keg of nails (of a different kind) at the expense of Messrs. Olewine and his fellow sufferers.

The last place the forger visited was James Schofield's shop where he worked the same little bluff, buying three dollars worth of goods and proffering a fifteen dollar check. At each place he left the goods saying he would call later but he has so far failed to matierialize.

On a careful examination of one of the checks the fraud becomes very apparent. The indorsement on the back and the signature on the face of the checks are the same hand writing, the attempt to change the style being a very bungling one.

After working the Bellefonte merchants all he desired, he hired a rig and a driver to take him to Snow Shoe Intersection where he jumped a freight train and left for parts unknown.

Mr. McClure describes the man as being about 5 feet 10 inches tall, dark hair and eyes. His face was peculiarly marked with red blotches. He was well dressed and wore a slouch hat.

Bring Home What You Borrow.

The library belonging to the Young Men's Christian Association is being rearranged and classified and is to be immediately catalogued and prepared for use. It has been discovered that several sets of books are incomplete, and the natural inference is that the missing books have been borrowed at some time in the past, by well-meaning people who have forgotten to return them, please investigate, and if you find, among your belongings, books that have the Y. M. C. A. label on the inside of the front cover, kindly send them to the building at once. Don't put it off or you'll forget it. One book in particular, Vol. IV, of "The History of the Pennsylvania Volunteers" is very much desired.

For Reflection.

After the disgraceful scene in the Senate Chamber on last Monday, between a couple of toughs, is it not time that the citizens of the United States would inquire into the moral character of those who seek to represent us in that body? We desire statesmen, but rather than suffer the humiliation that we are compelled to endure, from such affrays as that which occurred between two distinguished (?) law makers at that time, let us be represented by respectable men. There are other qualifications besides education required of those who seek these high and responsible positions, and our only regret is that such bullies and ruffians are not dealt with in a summary manner, and if their action is an evidence of statesmanship, hereafter let us send to Washington, fewer statesmen and more gentlemen.

A Quart Baby.

Now and again there is an item in the newspapers concerning the birth of a puny baby so small that a quart cup holds it comfortably. If the article told all the facts it would probably tell also of a mother who in weakness and misery had looked forward to the baby's advent with shrinking and fear.

To have fine, healthy children the mother must be healthy, and it is the common testimony of mothers that the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only promotes the mother's health but also gives her strength to give her child.

"Favorite Prescription" accomplishes these results by tranquilizing the nerves, promoting a healthy appetite, and giving refreshing sleep. It increases physical vigor and gives great muscular elasticity, so that the baby's advent is practically painless. It is the best of tonics for nursing mothers.

"I gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. J. W. G. Stephens, of Mila, Northumberland County, Va. "Before my third little boy was born I took six bottles. He is the finest child and has been from birth, and I suffered very much less than I ever did before. I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use the 'Favorite Prescription.'"

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines.

Roger T. Bayard Distinguishes Himself.

There was great excitement on North Thomas street Tuesday night, occasioned by a drunken man forcing himself into the home of William Reasner and trying to create a disturbance, which so frightened the ladies of the household that they cried murder! help! police! and anything they could think of.

Roger T. Bayard and Louie Hill, who were passing at the time, hearing the alarm and cries of distress, rushed in to see the cause of the trouble. They were met at the door by the man himself, who said some bad words and told them to leave. Bert's hair rose on end so quickly that his hat fell off, but he told the chap just to wait a little while until he could go up town and consult Burgess Blanchard. The Burgess immediately armed himself with an umbrella and his yellow mackentosh and proceeded to the scene, with Bert following at a safe distance. When they arrived at Mr. Reasner's they found the man too drunk to resist and he was taken to the lockup and kept all night. Wednesday he was taken before His Honor who fined him to the extent of his available assets and left him go. Young Hill has not been heard from since.

A Horse Thief Under Arrest.

On the evening of the 15th of June Miss Carrie Holt, of Roland, had a valuable horse, buggy and harness stolen out of her stable at that place. Suspicion at once pointed to a party who had been seen lurking around the vicinity. The theft was reported to the authorities who at once set to work to apprehend the culprit. Monday morning Ex-Sheriff Robert Cook, of Howard, and the constable at Mill Hall, arrested a man at the latter place and took him to Roland where he was given a hearing before Squire W. Galer Morrison. He gave his name as Edward Walker and his residence as Clearfield. He stoutly maintained his innocence but the evidence was strong enough to hold him for trial and so he was brought to Bellefonte Monday evening by Detective Rightnour and lodged in jail.

On Tuesday he made a confession and said that the horse was in the possession of a liveryman at Brookville and the buggy was at a small town just this side of that place.

Miss Holt and Detective Rightnour left for Brookville to identify and recover the stolen property.

W. Gross Mingle Honored.

Gross Mingle was the cause of raising the greatest excitement accompanied with more noise, than was ever heard within the walls of the staid old Brockerhoff House, and it was not intentional on his part, but it appears that he had returned Tuesday after an absence of a couple of weeks, with a young lady whom he introduced as Mrs. Mingle. Landlord H. S. Ray did a little whispering around, and about half past eleven o'clock when Gross was sleeping his sweetest, he was awakened by the greatest pandemonium out side of his door, he jumped up to find the cause, and when he looked into the hall he saw about steen of his male and female friends trying to do honor to him and his bride in the most artistic style. He beat a retreat but had to appear in front of the curtain with his bride before there was any let up to the demonstration. Gross was not the only one wakened, all the boarders were astir, and some of them were not as happy as they should have been, but they were old bachelors or cranks.

A Pleasant Gathering.

We clipped the following article, which will be read with interest by our many readers, from the "Altoona Tribune":

One of the most pleasant gatherings that the writer has ever had the pleasure of attending was that at Benore, Centre county, Pa., when Rev. and Mrs. D. F. Kapp celebrated their twelfth wedding anniversary which happy event occurred June 25, 1902.

The occasion brought forth numerous friends and pleasant faces to the hospitable mansion of the celebrating couple. Rev. D. F. Kapp who for three years was the beloved and highly esteemed pastor of the M. E. church at Birmingham, and afterwards two years of the Ennisville charge, and who owing to his health had to relinquish his pastoral duties temporarily, is now the efficient and well liked superintendent of the Scotia ore mines.

The writer has had years of pleasant personal acquaintance with Rev. and Mrs. Kapp and knows how happy those twelve years of married life have been.

The day was most enjoyably spent in and around the spacious rooms, porches and lawns of the home of the superintendent and will be a pleasant spot in the memory of all those present. The wants of the inner man were supplied to the utmost capacity. All parties present joined in congratulations and wishes for returns of the happy occasion and that the happy couple might even see their fiftieth anniversary.

After refreshments had been served the guests were called to the large front porch by the Rev. Mr. Runyeon, former pastor of the Stormstown charge and now of Woodland, and speech-making was in order and congratulations were offered by the Rev. Eslinger, of Stormstown, Rev. Runyeon, of Woodland, Frank Clemson, of Bellefonte, and Dr. S. M. Snyder, of Altoona.

Among the guests present we noticed the following:

Rev. and Mrs. Eslinger, Stormstown; Rev. Runyeon, Woodland; Mr. and Mrs. Randolph, Mr. Smith and Miss Oake, Ennisville; Mr. Frank Clemson and family, Bellefonte; Mr. F. A. Weston and family and Miss Annie Matthews, Tyrone; Mrs. Neidich and daughter and Mr. C. C. Roop and wife, State College, Dr. Snyder and family, Altoona; Miss Junie Little, Osceola; Miss Flo Kapp, Mr. Balsor and family, Dr. Coons and family, Mr. Thomas Roop and wife, Miss Mary Roop, Benore, and Mr. F. A. Detrich, Birmingham.

The writer closes by wishing the worthy couple many long and prosperous years and happy returns of this pleasant occasion. * * *

Smallpox Causes a Wedding.

One day last January Geo. Russell was taken from a P. R. R. train at Altoona suffering from smallpox. He was an expert bookkeeper and had been visiting his parents at Wilkesbarre and was on his way from that place to Pittsburg. After having been removed to the pest house, a buxom young widow named Mrs. Glass volunteered her services in the capacity of a trained nurse to nurse the unfortunate good-looking stranger. For about a month she ministered to his wants, and the acquaintance thus formed ripened into love, until one day last week, when the engagement was announced. So girls never run from a man who has smallpox.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Not on the Boards.

Overseer Samuel H. Diehl furnished amusement to quite a number of people at Justice Keichline's office on Saturday. It seems that Mr. Diehl had been entertaining a white lady (?) at the Willowbank borough home. She was married to a colored gentleman (?) by the name of John Delige several years ago, who deserted her, and having no means of support was left to the tender mercies of our poor authorities.

It having been ascertained that Mr. Delige was living in Altoona she had a warrant issued for his arrest, charging him with desertion. The document was given to Detective Rightnour, who proceeded to Altoona and brought John to Bellefonte on Saturday and the hearing before the Justice took place in the afternoon. N. B. Spangler, Esq., represented Mrs. Delige and Col. Wilbur F. Reeder appeared for Mr. Delige, and for a while things were very interesting.

When the fair plaintiff saw her darling husband she relented and would not testify against him, and told what a good, kind and loving sort of a chap he was, but Justice Keichline did not appear to agree with her, and accordingly imposed a fine of $500 upon John, or go to jail. This riled Mrs. Delige and she opened up such a torrent of abuse and profanity against everyone but her dear John that the respectable portion of the crowd put their fingers in their ears to keep from hearing. It did not appear to disconcert Johnnie, for he coolly walked away with his attorney to hunt someone who would go his bail.

We forgot to mention that Mrs. Delige is a cripple and had been brought from the Poor House to the Squire's office in a cab and when Mr. Diehl asked her to return she refused to do so and threatened to scratch his eyes out if he attempted to touch her. Sam being a long-distance hero did not attempt to do more than reason with her, she standing with her back to the cab. Just at this point Joe Rightnour performed a coup d' etat. He opened the door on the other side of the cab and catching her by the arms pulled her in backwards, and folding her up between the seats, the doors were closed and the team started, carrying the two passengers to their destination. No doubt she made it pleasant for Joe during the trip, but he don't care for a little affair of this kind, he rather enjoys it.

It was one of the very funny sights that a newspaper reporter witnesses in his rambles.

Bellefonte Philanthropists.

It is worth your while to call and see John I. Olewine, William McClure and Hon. James Schofield and hear their explanations of how they were fleeced out of $12 each by means of forged checks presented to them on Saturday evening by a man by the name of George Heller. They all agree on one point, viz: that they knew the checks were no good, but being philanthropists thought they would help a worthy man along. Will McClure did not want to be outdone by Hon. James, and vice versa. John Olewine was determined to get ahead of the Potter-Hoy Hardware Co., whom he knew would jump at the opportunity of doing the generous. But after taking the checks to the bank and having them thrown out as worthless they sort of regretted their hasty action and now wish they had left the others have the glory. This is an old game and has been tried so often that we wonder such careful business men could be taken in.

The Allen-Roberts Nuptials.

Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock a pretty wedding event was celebrated at the Evangelical parsonage on Willowbank street, the contracting parties being David A. Allen, formerly of Howard, Pa., but now of Pitcairn, and Miss Lucretia Roberts, daughter of Al Roberts of this place.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Brown, pastor of the Evangelical church. The best man was Mr. James Shook and the bridesmaid Miss Tillie Heck.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen left for Howard on the 8:16 train Tuesday evening and later will go to Pitcairn, Pa., where they will make their future home; the groom holding an excellent position with the Pennsylvania Railroad at that place.

—Monday, June 30, ended the Federal fiscal year of 1902. At midnight taxes imposed for the Spanish-American war, yielding $70,000,000 per year, ceased. On Tuesday tobacco dealers of this place were busy taking account of stock of tobacco in order to get the rebate on the tobacco tax.

DEATH OF JOHN MEYER.

An Aged Citizen of Penn Township Has Passed Away.

John Meyer, one of Penn townships oldest and most prominent citizens, expired at his home near Penn Hall Tuesday morning at 3 o'clock, Death was due to the infirmities incident to old age.

Deceased was of German descent and his ancestors were among the early settlers of the county. He was born in Annville township, Lebanon county, Sept. 14, 1814, which would make him in his 88th year. When he was 14 years of age his parents moved to Centre county where he has ever since resided. In his younger days he was a school teacher but later engaged in farming at which he was quite successful. On June 16, 1853 he was married to Miss Eleanor Smith, of Penn township, who survives him with one son, Jacob S., of Penn Hall.

John Meyer was an enthusiastic democrat and has been called upon to fill almost every township office, being assessor, school director, tax collector, overseer of the poor, supervisor, auditor and clerk of election. He was an earnest christian and an elder in the Salem Reformed church.

The funeral took place Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from the Salem Reformed church near Penn Hall. Interment in the cemetery adjoining the church.

Death of Erastus Robb.

Just as the morning light was breaking, Monday the spirit of Erastus Robb, which for the past three months had struggled hard to be free, left its worn out tenement of clay, and went to join the innumerable host that has gone before, to that unknown spirit land, to which all the great host of humanity are constantly and steadily moving. It was twenty-five minutes past four when the end came. He had been a painful sufferer from cancer of the stomach, all that medical skill, the faithful, constant care of a loving wife and family could do, to ease his suffering and prolong his stay was done, but to no avail, God was calling him home.

He was the son of William and Catherine Robb, was born in Stone Valley, May 5, 1846, making the length of his earthly journey 56 years, 1 months and 25 days. When quite young he was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth Neunemaker of Madisonburg, Centre county, who with the following children survive him: Arthur of Braddock; Harry of Pittsburg; Mrs. Harry Miller, Mrs. Carrie Graham, Ollie, Frederick, Adaline, Fearon and Joseph of Bellefonte, also the following brothers and sisters: Daniel, of Ill.; John, of Ohio; George, of Coleville; and Mrs. Charlotte Billett of Birmingham.

He was a soldier of the civil war having enlisted Oct. 20, 1864, in Company F, 51st Regiment P. V., was mustered out at the close of the war in 1865. He was also a member of Gregg Post No. 95, G. A. R.

The funeral took place from the Methodist church of which he was a consistent member Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Wilford P. Shriner officiating. Interment in the Union cemetery.

The deceased was buried with the honors of war, the services being under the auspices of Gregg Post, who turned out in a body. A squad from Company B, under the charge of Corporal J. Victor Royer, acted as an escort to the remains. Several hundred of the fellow employees of the deceased at the Glass Works also attended in a body.

The services were conducted by Rev. Wilford P. Shriner D. D., who spoke very feelingly of the many good qualities of the departed.

The pall-bearers were the following members of Gregg Post: David Love, Thomas Donachy, Charles Eckenroth, D. C. Walters, Frank Wallace and H. B. Pontius.

Burglary at Lemont.

Some unannointed wretch entered the Presbyterian parsonage at Lemont Sunday night and robbed Rev. D. E. Hepler of money and valuable papers. Entrance was effected through the front door. The thief did not go up-stairs, confining his depredations to the lower floor. Rev. Hepler had unfortunately left his pocket-book lying on the dining-room table; in it was $15 in cash, a check of Frank McFarlane's payable to the order of Cornelius Dale but not indorsed, his railroad clerical order, besides other papers of value. Nothing else seems to have been disturbed. The loss come heavy at this time as Mr. Hepler was just leaving on his summer vacation. He was a passenger on the west-bound train yesterday on his way to visit his sister who is sick in Pittsburg.

We hope the thief will be apprehended and the property restored.

Saved a Woman's Life.

Sufferers from Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung Trouble need this grand remedy, for it never disappoints. Cure is guaranteed by Green's Pharmacy.

OUR BORO FATHERS.

Proceedings of Their Regular Semi-Monthly Session Held Monday Night.

The regular semi-monthly session of council met Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock with President Reynolds in the chair and the following members present: Derstine, Cunningham, Whittaker, Kirk, Garrity, Knisely and Potter. There was only one absentee, Mallory of the South ward.

The meeting was called to order by the President after which the clerk, Mr. Pontius read the minutes of the previous meeting which were duly approved.

S. A. McQuistion and Charles McCafferty property owners on West High street complained of the condition of the gutters on the north side of that thoroughfare. The water seems to be all carried on the north side of that street and as a result when a heavy rain occurs all the cellars along there are flooded.

Citizens of East Bishop street complained of the bad condition of a crossing on the south side of Bishop street at the intersection of Ridge street.

Boro Treasurer Meek reported receiving $50.00 from the Water committee for old iron sold.

The Street committee through Mr. Derstine reported cleaning various gutters and repairing streets and alleys.

The Fire and Police committee through Mr. Knisely reported ordering a new uniform for one of the police officers.

Chairman Garrity of the Water committee stated that the meters had been examined up to the 1st of July and they recommended that the following rate be charged:

50000 gal.	12	cents	per	thousand
100000 "	10	"	"	"
200000 "	9	"	"	"
400000 "	8	"	"	"
800000 "	7	"	"	"
1550000 "	6	"	"	"

He also recommended that the tax be collected on the Oct. 1st and April 1st of each year and that 5 per cent be added when not paid.

The market committee reported $10.70 collected from market licenses. The market is very well attended.

The report of the Finance committee was as follows:

The League of American Municipalities which will hold a convention at Grand Rapids in August extended an invitation to council to send delegates to this convention, but council decided that under the present state of their finances they would defer this pleasure.

The complaint of Messrs. McQuistion and McCafferty was referred to the street committee to investigate with power to act.

A new crossing was ordered made as per request of the citizens of East Bishop street at the intersection of Bishop and Ridge streets.

After lengthy discussion of the water question Mr. Potter moved that the report of the Water committee in regard to the meter tax rate be accepted. It was so ordered.

The committee appointed to arrange the boro ordinances in shape for printing in book form, reported progress.

The boro solicitor still has the legal status of the repairs to Water street under consideration so that Street committee could only report progress in the matter.

Mr. Kirk moved seconded by Mr. Derstine that the Pennsylvania Railroad be requested to desist from blockading High street with cars. It was so ordered.

Chairman Potter of the Finance committee announced a popular loan of $25,000 which is being arranged to pay the floating debt. Coupon bonds are to be issued for $500 each numbered from 1 to 50 and dated Aug. 1, 1902. They are to run until August 1, 1904. The interest is to be 4 per cent. The taxes on these bonds are to be paid by boro. Mr. Potter read the form of the bond and submitted a report on the matter.

The question of the authorizing of the issuing of the bonds was then taken up and the ayes and nays were called, the vote being unanimous in favor of the issuing of same.

Council authorized Mr. Potter to have the bonds printed.

The total indebtedness of the boro is $107,346.78, according to the report of Mr. Potter.

The Fourth in Bellefonte.

After the portentous appearance of the weather on Thursday everyone expected Friday to be wet and disagreeable, but much to our surprise and gratification old Sol appeared bright and shining and continued to favor us with his presence during the entire day. There were but few strangers in town, the objective point of everyone who could get away being Hecla Park.

Quite a number of the stores remained open until noon but little business was done, and we might have thought it Sunday had it not been for the incessant bang of the fire crackers and revolvers.

Quite a number of our citizens flung to the breeze the National Emblem, thus showing their patriotism. There was no drunkenness or disorder of any kind upon our streets and our policemen had a restful time. We noticed several small picnic parties leaving town in carriages to spend the day in the woods.

In the evening, however, there were fine displays of fire works in every section of the town and the small boy was in his glory. Several paper balloons floated through the air which presented a beautiful sight, but at 11 o'clock our streets had resumed their usual tranquil and quiet appearance and we are satisfied that our people woke up this morning feeling better than if Bellefonte had celebrated with a hip and hurrah of a time. The merchants sold all their fire crackers and there are the usual number of burned fingers to be dressed, lawns to be cleaned, and a general renovating of the streets.

Thus has passed into history the One Hundred and Twenty-sixth anniversary of our National Independence.

Two New and Popular Songs.

Mrs Isabel Stewart North, of Bradford, Penn., who is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. W. Crider, on Linn street, is an accomplished musician, and in addition to being a skilful performer on the piano is a composer of great reputation. Her two last pieces of music presented to the public being the "Spanish Boat Song" which is written in two keys, for high soprano and low mezzo soprano, and "Seven Times One" for soprano, are pronounced by musical critics the finest she has yet produced. Those who have heard them during her visit here have been simply delighted. As many have expressed a desire to purchase the music she has placed a few copies for sale at Gephart's music store on Allegheny street. These promise to be among the most popular songs of the times.

Death of Charles Wesley Ruble.

Charles Wesley Ruble died at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Lena Ruble at State College on Saturday morning, death being caused by diabetes, his age was eighteen years. Mr. Ruble was an exemplary young man, bright and intelligent. He was a junior at the College last year, but owing to ill health was obliged to relinquish his studies. He was exceedingly popular, and a great favorite among his fellow students, and his death has caused a gloom throughout the community. Besides his mother, two brothers survive him, John of Bellefonte and Joseph of Pittsburg. His remains was taken Tuesday to Centre Hall for interment.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

A Few of the Fourth of July Mishaps That Occurred Here Friday.

Miss Ann Harris met with a very painful accident yesterday. She was handling a revolver loaded with blank cartridges, when from some cause, the gun went off, the charge of powder striking the first finger of her left hand, badly lacerating it and making an ugly wound. She went to Dr. Geo. F. Harris' office; he being absent Dr. Hayes gave attention to the wound until Dr. Harris arrived, who dressed the injured member.

A son of Thos. Penningtons, stooped down to see whether a fire cracker he had thrown on the pavement was still burning. It was, and went off, burning his face badly. Poor little fellow we sympathize with him in having the pleasures of the Fourth spoiled.

Thos. Cain, the thirteen year old Grandson of Thomas Wilson, residing below town met with a painful and dangerous accident yesterday. He had a revolver loaded with blank cartridges, when from some unexplainable reason it went off, sending the wadding and charge of powder into his right hand inflicting a dreadful wound. Dr. John Sebring Jr., was called who dressed his hand and did all he could to relieve the little sufferer.

A lady whose name we could not learn had her pocket-book stolen at Hecla Park yesterday. It contained a sum of money, a check for five dollars and fifty cents, besides other valuable papers.

Ensign McIntyre's Departure.

Ensign J. D. McIntyre, who for several months has been senior officer of the Salvation Army stationed at this place, has been transferred to another post, and departed at noon on Thursday. Many of her friends were at the station to say farewell.

Ensign McIntyre has endeared herself to our people, probably to a greater degree than anyone who has ever been in Bellefonte to engage temporarily in Christian labor. She was an intense, aggressive worker in Christ's cause, but exceedingly tactful and with such a magnetism that people were drawn to her and none repelled. During her stay here, extending over a period of eight months, no one spoke of her except in terms of praise and admiration for the good she accomplished. She was not only zealous, but worked with understanding in her peculiar way, always bright and cheerful, at the same time with proper reserve and dignity, which commanded the respect of everyone, and whoever heard her speak, whether on the street or in the hall, could not but be impressed by her simple though forceful appeal to follow Him, whom she worshipped and taught. Although she has gone the prayers and kind wishes of our good people will follow her and we will not forget her labor of love in this community.

Now let us aid and assist those who have taken her place to continue the good work set on foot by her in our midst. Let us give them the same substantial encouragement that was accorded the Ensign.

A Former News Carrier.

Willis Wardner Willard, who at one time was a carrier of the DAILY NEWS is in Bellefonte visiting his aunt, Mrs. W. V. Larimer. Willis has grown into a fine looking young man, in fact rather handsome and distinguished in appearance, and is just as good as he is good looking. At the last commencement exercises of Dickinson College he was awarded a prize of $25. in cash for excellence in scholarship and deportment. He will be a junior in that institution next year. His mother who resided at one time at this place, Mrs. Nannie A. Willard, is a resident now of Williamsport. E. R. Chambers, Esq., is the young man's uncle. His friends can well be proud of him.

Cupid's Darts Capture James Miller, one of the Bush House Porters.

James Miller, one of the popular and obliging porters at the Bush House surprised his friends Thursday evening when he joined the ranks of the benedicts by taking unto himself a bride in the person of Miss Edith Brown, a highly respected young lady.

The ceremony was performed at the A. M. E., parsonage by Rev. T. J. Askew in the presence of a few of the intimate friends and relatives of the young people. Mr. and Mrs. Miller are being showered with congratulations and "Jim" is as happy as a big sun-flower.

A Quiet Home Wedding.

On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock the home of Andrew Dunkle in Bush Addition was the scene of a very pretty home wedding, the happy parties being Mr. Dunkle's daughter, Miss Katie and Mr. Oscar Young. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Brown, pastor of the Evangelical church, in the presence of only the immediate family and friends.

They expect to reside at this place the groom being in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad as a section hand.

Col. Wilbur F. Reeder Patriotism.

Col. Wilbur F. Reeder had a novel experience on the Fourth of July. Early in the morning, taking with him John Mensinger, he drove to the Club House at Hecla, intending to have a days fishing. After having their horses put away, and their pockets full of bait, they started for the mountain stream. After they had been angling for a long time, and not having any bites, the Col took out of his pocket, a song book which he always carries on an expedition of this kind, and commenced warbling some patriotic airs "He had not been singing his song very long" until he heard something in the bushes, which sounded like some one keeping time softly, on a snare drum. It startled him at first, and after hearing it for some time, he handed his rod to John in order to go and see the cause. He had gone but a short distance when he saw the most peculiar sight ever witnessed by himself or any one else. Immediately in front of him, with its head lifted in the air to the height of at least three feet, was a huge rattle snake, the largest of its species he had ever seen, and what made it remarkable, was that in its mouth it held a small American Flag. The Col 's patriotism overcame his fear, and he commenced singing The Star Spangled Banner. The snake immediately began to move its head gracefully backward and forward and keeping perfect time to the tune with its rattles. He had not the heart to kill it, but did not think it wise to allow it to escape, so he called John, who is an Englishman, and had no compunction against striking down the American Flag, who slipping up behind the reptile, struck it a blow which felled it to the ground. Many of our readers may not believe this snake story, but if they call at the Col.'s office they can see the flag and nine rattles. We would just add the snake measured five feet.

NOTICE!

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 5, 1902.

The passenger train scheduled to run on Saturday of each week between Bellefonte, Scotia and Red Bank, will be discontinued after July 5th, 1902.

F. H. THOMAS, Supt.

About three weeks ago we published an article in relation to bringing trade to our Bellefonte stores, and suggested the propriety of offering coupons to those who would come from a distance, to the extent of a small percentage on purchases. Evidently our merchants did not look favorably upon the suggestion, as from the above notice Supt. Thomas will discontinue running passenger trains to Scotia and Red Bank. These points are within fifteen miles of Bellefonte and there is paid out in wages to the men employed, about $5,000 per month or $60,000 per year, and as there is passenger service between there and Tyrone, we lose that trade entirely. We may be mistaken, but it looks like short-sightedness on the part of our business men to allow this amount of money to be diverted from where it properly belongs, and even yet, there is but little doubt, that arrangements could be made with Mr. Thomas to bring these people to Bellefonte, if only some little effort on our part is made.

The Postal Telegraph Company Establishing New Offices.

On Sunday special trains were run from Tyrone to Lock Haven and from Bellefonte to Lemont and Postal Telegraph offices were established at all the stations along the route except Bellefonte. The reason the offices were established on Sunday is said to be in order to prevent the Western Union people serving an injunction on them. A postal telegraph office will be established here in the near future.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is putting in postal telegraph offices all along its lines and throwing out the Western Union people whose leases of these wires have expired. It is said it will cost the Western Union Company $5,000,000 to put its wires in shape to compete with the Postal Telegraph Company.

—A successful newspaper correspondent succeeded in eluding the censor in South Africa and kept his paper, a London daily, constantly informed concerning the peace negotiations by securing the services of a mining engineer and referring to the negotiations as the "Paxfontain Mine." All statements were made in commercial verbiage and appeared to refer to the sale of the alleged mine.

Eagleville's Fourth.

The Fourth was a big day for Eagleville. Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. the day was celebrated in a fitting manner with various events to interest and amuse. A parade headed by the Curtin cornet band which furnished music throughout the day, took place in the morning and marched to Beech Creek. The town was full of visitors all day and there were many decorations. The bicycle race was won by Charles Bechdol. The ball game was the important event in the afternoon and in the evening there was a concert by the band, a liberal display of fire works and a big crowd. The chief feature of the day was the ball game arranged to be played between Howard and Flemington. A crowd of eight hundred people assembled in a blazing hot sun to witness what promised to be an exciting and close game. The game turned out to be full of wrangling and disputes from which the Howard boys were not exempt, and terminated with Flemington at the bat in the last half of the fourth inning with one man out. Flemington had the Howard team in the air and four men had crossed home plate when Walker stole home and scored. The ball had rolled among the spectators and after Long got it he touched Walker as he came home. It looked like a blocked ball, but Umpire Jenkins of Howard, said "no" and there it ended, not without many words and heated arguments, however. Interest in the game was intense and the ending was very unsatisfactory.

—Secretary Root gives $170,000,000 as the cost of the Philippines to his department to date. Secretary Long gave the figures for his department as $20,000,000. The original price was $20,000,000, and now news comes from Rome that Governor Taft has offered $5,000,000 for the friars' lands.

—Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, has purchased 25 acres of Wooded land east of and adjoining Altoona, and on it will erect a beautiful home for two aged aunts, who are residents of Altoona. The property is prettily located and is known as Geary's woods. The erection of the building will begin in the near future.

Wedding Bells Ring Sweetly.

One of the most pleasant social events, that has ever been celebrated in Bellefonte, was the wedding of Miss Magdelene Elizabeth, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth H. B. Callaway, to George Boal Thompson, of Lemont, which took place at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Louisa Bush, at high noon, Thursday, June 26th, The invitations were limited to the relatives, and a few personal friends of the respective families.

Precisely at 12 o'clock, Mrs. Commerford, by a few notes given on the piano, denoted that the time had arrived, and then, on that instrument played, as an accompaniment to Miss Louise Bush Callaway, who was at the rear of the hall, and who commenced to sing in sweet, rich tones "Klendels" wedding song. At the same moment, the groom, attended by his best man, Mr. John Snyder of Philadelphia, walked into the parlor and took positions on the left of Rev. George Israel Brown, Rector of St. John's Episcopal church of Bellefonte. The strains of music grew gradually nearer, until the maid of honor, Miss Louise Calloway entered the room, and took her position, still singing, at the right of Rev. Brown, then followed the bride, leaning on the arm of her uncle, George Tome Bush, who took their position immediately in front of the rector. The bride was dressed in a Bruges lace robe, over white liberty satin, with long bridal veil, and carried a shower of white sweet peas, tied with baby ribbon. The maid of honor, was attired in Paris Muslin over white silk. Mr. Bush, having left the side of the bride, the groom took the place made vacant by him. Rev. Brown, then proceeded with the beautiful, and impressive marriage ceremony of the Episcopal Church. At it close he declared Mr. and Mrs. Thompson man and wife, after which, without formality, they received the congratulations of those assembled. About one o'clock elaborate refreshments were served. The parlor was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants, representing a veritable floral bower, Rhododendron, Daisies and Ferns prevailing. The bride is an accomplished, refined and beautiful young lady, and is universally admired in our community, and was the recipient of many elegant and costly gifts. The groom, who is the son of Jno. I. Thompson Esq., of Lemont, is a young lumber manufacturer, and has the confidence and respect of the business world. After a brief honeymoon they will reside at State College.

The above order however is unecessary for Co B. as its details always conduct themselves as gentlemen.

If our people wonder what has happened at the residence of Mrs. Lousia Bush, why everything is so quiet and gloomy, we will explain by saying that Miss Sarah Sides, who has been making things lively there for the last two weeks, left for her home at Jersey Shore Wednesday. Miss Sides is one of the brightest and cheeriest young ladies it has ever been our pleasure to know.

Mr. Reed Stuart Dickson, son of Rev. James S. Dickson, pastor of Woodland Presbyterian Church, of Philadelphia, is in town for the summer. —Painters are busily engaged in giving the woodwork of the Presbyterian church and chapel a coat of fresh paint, and it was badly needed as both buildings for a long time have presented a neglected appearance. While they are at these improvements, they might as well do something to the outside wall, as the stone is disintegrating and falling off in huge chunks. Someone will get hurt and they will wish they had given it attention sooner.

—The Centre County Banking Co. is keeping pace with the times and have had their commodious rooms repainted and frescoed. The ceiling of the banking room has been laid off in panels, and a heavy moulding run around the edge of the ceiling. This was a waterhaul for Joseph.

—We had expected to furnish our readers with some startling news this morning. Capt. Mullen, our valiant Policeman, informed us that a brutal murder had been committed on Bishop Street. Upon investigation we found that his story was correct, but instead of a human being it was only twelve of his little chickens that he had been nursing tenderly all summer, they had been cruelly slaughtered during the night by a Bishop street rat. The Capt. is feeling badly over the loss as instead of chicken pie he, now has visions of flitch and scrappel for his winter's diet.

—Hon. P. Gray Meek, in a quiet, unostentatious manner, is constantly performing some benevolent deed, and is particularly thoughtful of the old and infirm. Almost every day during the pleasant weather he sends his carriage and takes for a drive some who would not otherwise have that pleasure. The happy smiles on their faces, as they went by our sanctum, indicated their appreciation of his kindness. Misses Lulu and Bessie Meek accompanied them.

HARDENED TO COLD.

Natives of Siberia Don't Mind a Below Zero Temperature.

Frequently, when we could not expose our ears for two minutes without having them frozen, says a traveler in Siberia, the natives would go for an hour at a time with their hoods thrown back from their heads, and when it required constant watchfulness to keep our noses from freezing they did not appear to notice the temperature at all.

One morning in January I stood in perfect amazement at their disregard of the low temperature. They worked for at least half an hour with bare hands packing up the tent and utensils, handling the packages and lashing them together with icy seal thongs without experiencing the least apparent inconvenience, while I partly froze my fingers striking a light for my pipe with a flint and steel, the whole operation taking not more than three minutes.

The night before, happening to go out of the tent after our men had retired, I passed their camp, which was near by. Their fire had burned to a pile of embers, barely affording me light enough to distinguish the sleepers. They were lying coiled up on small deerskins, with their backs to the embers and their fur coats thrown loosely over their naked bodies.

The coat of one of them had slipped almost entirely off his body, leaving his back and shoulders exposed to a temperature of 18 degrees F. below zero, and, though his hair was frosted, he snored as soundly as if in comfortable quarters.

—Because a man is poor, wears plain clothes, and has to work for a living, is no reason why he is not a gentleman. Garthoff, of Bellefonte, for the position of carrier, his average being 86.70; and Edwin K. Smith, of Oak Hall; for the position of clerk, whose average was 76.95.

ONE CERTAINTY.

Some Bellefonte People Fully Realize it Now.

When the back aches from kidney ills.

When urinary troubles annoy you.

There's a certain way to find relief.

A sure way to be cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do it.

Bellefonte people endorse this claim:

Mrs. J. Cowher of Bishop Street, says:—"I was very bad with my back and head. I suffered pain, in both and was very restless nights besides being so tired all the time I could hardly drag myself about. I was very lame across my kidneys and bending over or being on my feet was extremely painful. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills and seeing them so highly recommended for these troubles I procured them from F. Potts Green's drug store. They gave me positive relief, caused me to sleep well, stopped the pains, removed the lameness and invigorated me generally."

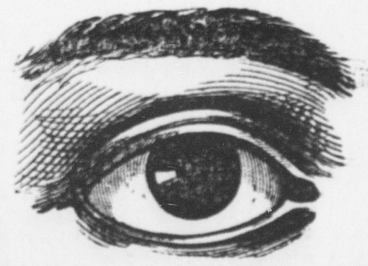
PROF. J. ANGEL

AN EXPERT



Eye Specialist!

of Williamsport, will make his monthly visit here

ONE DAY ONLY,

Wed. July 30,

from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., with headquarters at

THE GARMAN HOUSE

Bellefonte, Pa.

I can examine your eyes at your home, by appointment, without extra charge.

If you need me at your home drop me a line in care of Garman Honse.

Hundreds are going blind daily, from the need of the proper prescribed glasses and from delaying attention to the eyes from time to time. Nothing will destroy your eyesight quicker than cheap glasses or glasses not properly fitted to your eyes.

Prof. Angel, in the short time he has been visiting this section, has met with marked success. Scores of leading citizens of this community have found relief from his treatment. It is not necessary to travel to Eastern cities for treatment when you can consult an eminent oculist at home.

Additional Locals.

—Our young society people had a dance in the Armory Wednesday which, we understand, was a delightful affair, a large number of visitors being present. Christie Smith's orchestra furnished the music.

—The Logan Fire Company will hold their annual picnic this year at Hunter's Park on Wednesday, July 30th. Make no other arrangements for that date as an excellent program is being planned for the enjoyment of those who attend.

—The following party left Thursday to spend the glorious fourth with Mr. and Mrs. John Porter Lyon at the delightful country home "Heartsease": Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Mitchell, Miss Lide Thomas, Miss Grace Mitchell, Thomas and Malcolm Mitchell. "Jeewiliken" what a crowd and spring chickens not ripe yet. John you have our sympathy.

—Col. E. J. Pruner, mayor of Tyrone, called at our sanctum Wednesday. He informs us that the trolley cars now run between Bellwood and Tyrone and it would be but a short time until they would be running through to Altoona. There appears to be some difficulty in getting the right to use the streets of Bellwood. We congratulate Tyrone that at last the long expected has been realized.

—Mr. William Burnside entertained the following persons at "Burnsides' Solitude" last Saturday evening:—Mrs. Mildren and Dr. Nell Meek of Johnstown and Misses Lulu and Marie Meek. "Solitude" is a delightful resort in summer, and is situated on Mr. Burnside's farm on the top of Bald Eagle Ridge, from which point there is an extended view of the country in every direction.

—Wilbur G. Housel and Debra M. Long were united in marriage Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's father, Wm. Long, on Reynolds avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Israel Brown, of St. John's Episcopal church, in the presence of the immediate families of the contracting parties. The groom is in the employ of the American Lime and Stone company.

—The Sugar Valley Journal says: A streak of misfortune hit Edward Albright hard Monday morning. While engaged cutting straw for feed in the stable at A. D. Klechner's lumber camp his left hand slipped into the mouth of the cutter. Before the young man could withdraw the limb the knife closed and completely severed the thumb and first finger. Dr. Bickel dressed the wounds and prescribed proper treatment. [Edward Albright is a son of A. J. Albright, of Tylersville. —Ed]

—Thursday about 6:30 a. m. while the yard engine and crew at the Nittany furnace were doing some shifting about the yard, a trestle over Logan's Branch gave away and a car containing 60 tons of pig iron went down into the creek. The cause of the accident was the giving away of one of the middle piers of the trestle which is supposed to have been weakened by the flood last winter. Fortunately this trestle is located on a side track so that traffic on the main line was not interfered with. There were no casualities.

—It is an interesting sight, to see with what diligence a number of regular "tired out," able bodied men, hold down the iron railings that surround the Court House yard. They neither work, nor do they want work if it is offered to them, but there chief occupation is to find fault with others, and chew tobacco, as the walk through the Court House yard will indicate. ☺ We have no objection to these "tired men" resting and enjoying the cool breezes of the shade trees that grow within the enclosure, but gentlemen please refrain from the use of tobacco, so as not to interfere with the comfort and convenience of those having legal business at the Temple of Justice.

—The repeal of the war revenue taxation, which went into effect last Tuesday, will make an annual reduction of $70,000,000 in the income of the United States Government. The internal revenue from taxes, under the new schedule, however, will raise from $175,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year. The special taxes that are to be lopped include the tax on a banking concern of $50, and $2 on each $1,000 of its capital; the tax on brokers, dealers in grain, securities, etc., pawnbrokers, custom house brokers, proprietors of theaters, circuses, public exhibition, bowling alleys and billard rooms, dealers in tobacco and manufacturers of tobacco and cigars.

—There was an exciting runaway Thursday morning on High street, in which watermellons, small boy, wagon and little gray pony were badly mixed together. It appears that John Sourbeck loaded his wagon with watermellons to be delivered to his customers, and started it off with two little chaps. As it was raining they hoisted an umbrella. The pony has an aversion to anything of that kind, and started at a two-forty gait down High street, scattering mellons in every direction, it fortunately was stopped in front of the Bush House doing no further damage than losing the watermellons. It was one of those accidents in which no damage was done that could not be replaced, but for about five minutes Jonnie Sourbeck was the most excited individual in Bellefonte. Burgess Blanchard gives an entirely different version of the affair, but this account is correct.

—Buying a cow is a greater risk than buying a horse, yet some farmers who will not trust themselves in judging horses when buying will go out and take up fresh cows from any one who has them for sale. The farmer who will breed for better cows and keep his calves may imagine that it does not pay, but if he will avoid buying worthless cows, and aim to improve he will soon discover that he can make a larger profit on fewer cows and also have less labor to perform in so doing.

—When the Central Supply Co. were fitting up their new store they purchased one of the latest style coffee grinders. General Manager Griest and General Utility Brouse, both of whom are old store keepers undertook to set up the machine, and the whole outfit was very proud of it, as it is certainly a handsome piece of store furniture, but when they commenced grinding coffee the thing would not grind. They could put the ground coffee in at the bottom and it would come out in whole grains at the top, and what little they did succeed in getting through was done by George Harris standing on his head and turning the crank. This would have done all right but the position was uncomfortable for George. They were just about having it fastened up to the ceiling, when a little chap observed, that perhaps it might do, if they would change the grinder. They finally did this, and it worked like a charm. They had put it together wrong side before. Griest and Brouse have been kicking themselves all around the store because they thought they knew it all. The boys are having lots of fun over it.

The Herman—Miller Nuptials.

On Thursday evening, July 3, J. Fred Herman, of Lemont, and Miss Ella Miller, of Bellefonte, drove to Centre Hall where they were united in the holy bonds of wedlock at the Evangelical parsonage in that place. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. J. F. Shultz. The only guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams, of Bellefonte.

Mr. Herman is employed at the Scale Works and is an industrious young man. The bride is the daughter of the late Jos. Miller and is a charming and accomplished young lady. They will reside at the Miller homestead in Bush Addition.

The Republican joins with the many friends in extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Herman and wishes them a safe and happy voyage on the sea of matrimony.

DEATH OF DAVID REASNER.

Expired Wednesday Evening at the Home of His Son, Wm. Reasner.

At exactly 7 o'clock Wednesday evening the angel of death invaded the home of William Reasner on North Thomas street and took hence to the realms of glory the spirit of the venerable David Reasner. Just one week ago today the old gentleman came to Bellefonte from his home in Benner township to pay his son William a visit. On the evening of that day he became ill and when medical aid was summoned it was discovered that he had suffered a stroke of paralysis. His right side was entirely paralyzed. It was easily seen that it was only a question of time until death would ensue, but everything possible was done for him to make his last hours comfortable.

Deceased was born in Farmers Mills, Centre county, April 30, 1824 making his age at time of death 78 years 2 months and 3 days. He was a son of George Reasner who emigrated to this country from Germany. During his life he followed lumbering and farming but of late he has been living a retired life with one of his sons in Benner township.

In 1849 he was married to Miss Mary E. Senate, of Boggs township, who survives him with the following children: Samuel and Edward, of Benner township; John N., of Torentum, Pa.; William J., of Bellefonte; Mrs. Elizabeth Markle, Mrs. Bertha Marquette and Mrs. Myrtle Hoover, of Reading; Mrs. Carrie St Clair, of Carstella, Pa.; Mrs. Jesse Cox, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Katherine Senate, of Runville.

Deceased was a kindly christian gentleman and an earnest member of the United Brethren church of Bellefonte.

The funeral took place Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the residence of Wm. Reasner on North Thomas street. Rev. T. W. Perks, of the United Brethren church, having charge of the services, assisted by Rev. W. P. Shriner D. D., of the Methodist church. Interment in the Union cemetery.

Important Legal Decisions.

Judge Love Thursday handed down an opinion and decree in the case of George T. Brew, administrator of George W. Jackson, deceased, against D. H. Hastings, J. Henry Cochran and H. C. McCormick. This is a bill in Equity whereby the plaintiff sought to compel the defendants to make a settlement and an accounting with the plaintiff for the share of profits arising out of the banking business which would belong to Mr. Jackson. The plaintiff contended for the share of profits for several years. The defendants denied that they were liable to account to the administrator of Mr. Jackson for several reasons the principal ones being,

(1). That the Bank did not owe Mr. Jackson's estate anything, and

(2). That the legal question involved had been decided in 1899 by the Supreme Court in another Equity case between the same parties.

Judge Love heard this case about six months ago and has held it under advisement ever since.

The decision of the Judge dismisses the bill and rules that the Plaintiff is not entitled at this time to recover anything from the defendants or to have them make a settlement and an accounting with him.

The case is important because of the legal principles involved.

The attorneys interested were C. P. Hewes and John M. Dale for Mr. Brew and Henry C. McCormick and Wilbur F. Reeder for the defendants.

At the same time Judge Love filed an opinion refusing a new trial in the case of Elmer W. Moore, Receiver of the Iron City Mutual Fire Insurance Company against J. H. Reifsnyder, of Millheim.

And also refused a new trial in the case of McCalmont & Co. against John Rishel.

Farms of Pennsylvania.

The census report on agriculture in Pennsylvania, issued recently, shows that the farms of Pennsylvania, June 1, 1900, numbered 224,248 and were valued at $898,272,730. Of this amount 64 per cent. is the value of the land and improvements other than buildings The value of farm implements and machinery was $50,917,240 and live stock $102,439,183. These values added to that of farms gives $1,051,629,173 as the total value of farm property.

The total value of all such products, together with the total value of farm products for 1899 was $207,895,600 of which 39 per cent. represents the value of animal products and 61 per cent. the value of crops, including forest products cut or produced on farms. The gross farm income for 1899 was $150,851,830. The gross income on investment in 1899 was 14 per cent.

AN OWL STORY.

Showing the Tyrannous Effect of Habit Upon a Wild Animal.

An English publication tells this interesting story of an owl:

A vague figure appeared out of the clouds, traveling against the wind toward the spire and looking more like a ragged piece of newspaper whirled about the heavens than any living thing. It was a white owl, and after watching him for some time I came to the conclusion that he was trying to get to the vane of the spire. A very idle ambition it seemed, for, although he succeeded again and again in getting to within a few yards of the point aimed at, he was on each occasion struck by a fresh violent gust and driven back to a great distance, often quite out of sight in the gloom. But presently he would reappear, still struggling to reach the vane. A crazy bird!

But I could not help admiring his pluck and greatly wondered what his secret motive in aiming at that windy perch could be. And at last, after so many defeats, he succeeded and grasped the metal crossbar with his crooked talons. The wind with all its fury could not tear him from it, and after a little flapping he was able to pull himself up, and then, bending down, he deliberately wiped his beak on the bar and flew away!

This, then, had been his powerful, mysterious motive—just to wipe his beak, which he could very well have wiped on any branch or barn roof or fence and saved himself that tremendous labor. This was an extreme instance of that tyrannous effect of habit on a wild animal. Doubtless this bird had been accustomed after devouring his first mouse to fly to the vane, where he could rest for a few minutes, taking a general view of the place, and wipe his beak at the same time, and the habit had become so strong that he could not forego his visit even on so tempestuous an evening.

THE COPYRIGHT LAW.

First Measure Passed For the Protection of Literary Property.

April 10, 1710, is a noteworthy date in the history of literature. On that day came into operation an act "for the encouragement of learning by vesting the copies of printed books in the authors or purchasers of such copies." This was the first measure passed for the protection of literary property. The word "copyright," according to Dr. Murray, was not used before 1767. In the preamble of the bill, which is said to have been drafted by Dean Swift, the necessity of a measure "to enable learned men to write useful books" is dwelt upon. By its provisions two terms of copyright, each of fourteen years, were created for all future publications, one term to follow immediately upon the other if the author were still living at the expiration of the first term.

According to a subsidiary clause, if any publisher issued a book at a price judged too high by certain "discreet persons" he was liable to a penalty. The "discreet persons" included, among others, the archbishop of Canterbury, the lord chancellor and the vice chancellors of Oxford and Cambridge. On them devolved the somewhat delicate task of fixing the book's value. This clause was repealed in 1739, but the term of copyright remained unaltered until 1842, when it was extended to the life of the author and seven years, or forty-two years from the date of publication, whichever may prove longer. England was the first country thus to protect the rights of authors. France followed suit in 1793, but in Germany no copyright law existed until 1870.—London News.

Missed a Good Dinner.

A doctor living in a certain country town was notoriously fond of good living. He had accepted an invitation to dine with friends, but as he climbed their steps he smelt venison cooking in the kitchen next door.

The neighbors being also his friends he resolved to drop in on them unexpectedly to partake of the venison. They pressed him to share their informal dinner, but when he refused both soup and fish his host began to apologize for the simple fare.

The doctor then confessed that he was waiting for the venison, which he had smelt as he came in.

"Oh, that venison," said his entertainer, "we were roasting to oblige our neighbors, who have a dinner party next door."—London Answers.

A Montgomery Woman Killed.

Mrs. Henry Decker was killed and two other persons were badly injured in a runaway accident on Houston avenue hill, Montgomery, Tuesday morning. John High's team frightened and ran. The wagon overturned and threw its occupants into a storm gutter. All alighted upon their heads. Mrs. Decker's head was crushed, and she died Tuesday evening without regaining consciousness. John High's head was cut in a number of places, several ribs were broken, and he was badly bruised about the body. Carrie High's face was cut and she was otherwise injured.

This is the second serious accident to occur at this point within a month. On May 13 a family named Platt were badly used up in a similar accident.

—The anniversary of the Centre County Bible Society, which was to have been held in the Presbyterian church Sunday, has been postponed until a date to be agreed upon later. It was found impossible, owing to previous arrangements, to hold it at the time first set.

Wifehood as the Test of Womanhood.

The Good Woman Who Makes a Bad Wife.

Marriage was a serious thing to the grandparents and great grandparents of the present generation. No woman entered lightly upon wedlock. She knew that she was going to found a family, and that she must be equal to all the responsibilities of the position she assumed. She must be able to order her own household; to knit, sew, spin, make bread, butter, soap, candles, and indeed care for and clothe a whole family. She must not be craven when the whoop of the Indian warned of a dreadful danger. She must stand by her husband, gun in hand.

How many women of to-day could undertake wifehood under such conditions? Few indeed. Not because the modern American woman lacks courage, but because she lacks as a rule the physical health which is the indispensable qualification for a life such as was lived by the women of the past.

That is why a good woman may be a bad wife. Virtue and goodness are excellent things in women, but to guide a house and bear children demands above all sound physical health.

WOMEN CONVICTS.

To a great number of women the house they live in is almost on a par with a prison. It is prison-like in the monotonous regularity of daily duties; prison-like in the absence of all pleasure in what is done or joy in the doing. And the reason is to be found in womanly ill-health. Few women realize how intimately the general health is related to the health of the delicate womanly organs. A woman may suffer with heart "trouble," disorders of kidneys, liver or stomach, or with nervous prostration as a result of a diseased condition of the womanly organism. Many such women "doctor" for years for various diseases and wonder why they don't get better. They can't get better until the womanly organism is entirely cured of its diseases.

This is not theory. It is a statement of simple facts founded upon the testimony of hundreds of thousands of women who have been cured of womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. They had been just "dragging around" for years, with throbbing heads and aching backs, nervous, dyspeptic, miserable. The once fresh colored cheeks had grown sallow, the eyes were dull, the body had lost its plumpness. They had in numerous instances tried many doctors and medicines, exhausting the local medical skill at their disposal. At last some friend or neighbor who has personally proved the curative power of "Favorite Prescription" recommends the use of this medicine and that in almost every case means another sick woman made well and strong.

ASTONISHED THE DOCTOR.

"When I first wrote to you I did not think I could live till I could get an answer to my letter," says Mrs. Isaac S. Harris, of Gayville, Yankton Co., S. Dak. "At that time I did not tell you everything. When I wrote you I had just got home from the Hospital at Minneapolis, Minn. Had been there one month. Could not see as I was benefited any there, so I came home, thinking there was no help for me, and every one here said that I could not live. I would have sinking spells every day. Sometimes they would last an hour or more and I would be so weak it seemed almost impossible for me to breathe at all. Had night-sweats for three months, and my clothes would be just as wet as could be. Had uterine trouble also till I thought I would lose my mind; also had heart trouble so badly I did not know what to do. I suffered everything one could think of. We paid out so much money for doctoring, and there was nothing that did me any good till I consented to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did not have any faith in these medicines at all, but I am only too glad to say that in three days after taking the medicine I could see a change for the better. In a week I could sit up and then I commenced the treatment for uterine trouble. In three weeks I was able to be around the house some. I have taken nearly twelve bottles of the medicine and still continue to take it. I am getting better right along, can ride or walk any place. I can never praise your medicine enough.

"The doctor here says that he never would have believed that your medicine could have done so much for any one if he had not seen what it has done for me. He also told me to keep on taking it, for he could not help me. I thank you a thousand times for your kind advice and for your medicine."

SAFE AND SURE.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is unrivaled as a safe and sure medicine for the cure of womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It is the best preparative for motherhood, giving vigor to the body and buoyancy to the mind. It so strengthens the organs of maternity that it makes the baby's advent practically painless. HEARTILY GREETED!

Half a Million People Welcomed Roosevelt to Pittsburg.

THE SUN SHONE BRIGHTLY

In the Line of Parade There Were 3,000 Marchers—The Route Was Four Miles Long.

MANY DIGNATARIES TOOK PART

PITTSBURG, July 5.—Half a million persons greeted President Theodore Roosevelt in Pittsburg yesterday. They came, not only from Pittsburg and Allegheny, but from the scores of industrial towns within 100 miles of the city. It was the distinguished guests's first visit to Pittsburg as president, and his welcome was most enthusiastic. From the union station to the speaker's stand in Schenley park, nearly four miles away, it was one continuous cheer. The weather was all that could be desired with the sun shining brightly and the temperature not too high.

As the president's train approached the city the guns of the Hampton battery, commenced to boom forth the president's salute of twenty one guns. The last gun of the salute was fired as the president stepped from his car at the Union station. There he was escorted to a carriage which took its place in the column of paraders.

At a given signal the column then began to move. The marchers numbered 3,000 men, representing the Eighteenth regiment, the Fourteenth regiment, the Tenth regiment, who saw Philippine service; the Sheridan Cavalry troop, of Tyrone, Pa.; the Boys' Brigades and independent military organizations. Among the prominent guests who rode in carriages were: Governor W. A. Stone, Congressman Dalzell, Congressmen Acheson, Jack and Graham. Interest centred in the unique feature of the republican and democratic candidates for governor, Judge Pennypacker and Robert E Pattison, respectively, both of Philadelphia, riding in one carriage. They were accompanied by George T. Oliver and A. J. Barr, editors of republican and democratic papers, respectively, of this city.

Flags and bunting fluttered everywhere along the course of parade. People hung from windows of tall sky-scrapers, yelling themself hoarse in greeting of the nation's chief executive. When the head of the military escort reached a position opposite the speakers' stand, it was halted and stood company front with arms at present. As the president and those in carriages passed in review the band struck up the stirring strains of "Hail to the Chief." The music was fairly drowned by the cheering of the multitude of 200,000 persons in the stand and occupying vantage points on the amphitheatre-like hillside which rose in front.

Following the band piece, the United German societies of Allegheny, stationed at one side of the stand, made up of 600 voices, broke into singing "The Star Spangled Banner." At the close of the song the invocation was pronounced by the Rev. John H. Prugh. The Declaration of Independence was read by Brigadier General Willis J. Hulings, and then followed the oration of the day by the president of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt.

Sympathy Nearly Sent Him to Jail.

His efforts to do a favor for a friend nearly landed John H. Southards, postmaster at Wallace Run, Lycoming county, in the penitentiary. While the friend was ill his pension voucher came, and, desiring to help him get the money as soon as possible, Southards certified, as required by law, that the pensioner had appeared before him. In the United States court, Williamsport, it was established that while Southards was technically guilty, no real crime had been committed, and he was allowed to go after paying a fine.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Foley's Honey and Tar heals lungs and stops the cough.
C. M. Parrish.

Poisoning the System.

It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dullness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Risers prevent this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress. C. M. Parrish.

Treat Your Kidneys For Rheumatism

When you are suffering from rheumatism the kidneys must be attended to at once so that they will eliminate the uric acid from the blood Foley's Kidney Cure is the most effective remedy for this purpose. R. T. Hopkins, of Polar, Wis., says, "After unsuccessfully doctoring three years for rheumatism with the best doctors, I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. I cannot speak too highly of this great medicine." C. M. Parrish.

Sold by all druggists in all parts of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind.

No False Claims.

The proprietors of Foley's Honey and Tar do not advertise this as a sure cure for consumption" They do not claim it will cure this dread complaint in advanced cases but do positively assert that it will cure in the earlier stages and never fails to give comfort and relief in the worst cases. Foley's Honey Tar is without doubt the greatest throat and lung remedy. Refuse substitutes. C. M. Parrish.

A Clear Head for Business!

A head that aches is a bar to business. Most headache medicines offered the public, stop, but do not cure the attacks. Ease the pain but do not remove the cause. Do not give resistive power, act as sedatives or blanketing agents, require continued use. Continued loss means loss of effect or increased dose—possibly habit. Contrast this method of treatment with that of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills—A medicine that goes to the root of the trouble—a badly nourished nervous system—removes the cause, removes it for good—gives back the power to think, to work, to act, by its unparalleled nerve rebuilding tonic properties. The only sensible proper way to reach such trouble.

Sunbury.

Miss Jennie Zettlemoyer, of 300 North 4th street, Sunbury, Pa., says: "I have been troubled a long time with nervousness and at times would be so bad that I simply could not rest at night. I also was troubled a great deal with nervous headaches. I got some of A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and they did me a world of good. I used two boxes in all and I rested and felt quieter and was not troubled with the headaches. I intend continuing their use and have great confidence in them."

Allegheny St.

Solomon Garret, of No 301 Allegheny street, Bellefonte, Pa., says: "I had been feeling very much run down and poorly for a long time. My head ached a great deal and I felt tired all over. I was also bothered with sleeplessness at night. I saw Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills so highly recommended I got a box at Krumrine's drug store and they did me a great deal of good. I felt first rate after using them and have no hesitation in recommending them to others."

JOHN C. MILLER

Local Department.

—We are glad to note that Frederick Blanchard, Esq., who has been so sorely afflicted with rheumatism for the past ten days, is rapidly convalescing.

—Architect Robert Cole, of this place, has been awarded the contract for preparing all plans for rebuilding of St. John's Reformed church at Lock Haven.

—Miss Clark, daughter of Capt. Clark, milltary instructor at State College, has accepted a position in the drafting department of the Bellefonte Central R. R. during the summer vacation.

—Graham and Nancy Hunter killed a snake last Saturday in their fathers' yard on Curtin Street. It measured about eighteen inches. They are not as much stuck up over the heroic deeds as lots of older people would be.

—Mrs. Katherine Curtin, widow of the late War Governor Andrew G. Curtin, returned to her home in this place Saturday evening after spending the past two months very pleasantly with friends in Philadelphia and New York.

—Dr. Thomas C. VanTries, who has been visiting Pittsburg and several of the smaller towns in that vicinity, was compelled to return home owing to sickness, but we are glad to state that he is gradually improving, and will soon be able to mingle with his friends.

—We have been requested to state, that the fellow who stole the rabbits (one white and one yellow) from a residence near the corner of Linn and Allegheny streets, will do well to return them at once, to avoid some unpleasantness, as he is known, and our advice is that he gets them back quicker than he took them away.

—Orie Kline the hustling hardware clerk in Potter & Hoy's Store, gave an exhibition last Saturday on High Street, of fancy bicycle riding. The fellow with Welsh's circus is not in it with him, for Orie can lie down in the mud, and allow the wheel to pass over him without injuring it, though it is a little hard on his immaculate linen.

—Some time ago we stated that Mr. Frank Warfield was suffering from a sprained ankle, as it did not regain strength as rapidly as it should, he called in a physician who upon examination, discovered that one of the smaller bones was fractured. He will consequently remain at home for a while which will give him an opportunity to become better acquainted with his family.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Callaway entertained a party at "Burnside's Solitude" on Pardue Mountain Sunday. The following were her guests: Misses Sides, Hays, Shissler, Callaway, Mr. and Mrs. George Thompeon, Messrs. Gault, Edmund Blanchard, Thomas, Bush, Robert Morris, Hard Harris and Edgar Burnside. We understand Mrs. Callaway, with several of the party will remain two or three days at this delightful resort.

—The United Brethren church held a very impressive immersion service at the breast of the old car shop dam Sunday morning. Over five hundred people were present and enjoyed the services which took place at 11 o'clock. Rev. T. W. Perks, the pastor of the church, preached an eloquent sermon and the church choir sang several appropriate selections after which eight infants and three men were taken out into the middle of the stream and baptized by the Rev. Mr. Perks. The babies were simply sprinkled with water while the men were immersed.

—Robert Hunter thought he would take advantage of the cool, pleasant weather Sunday morning to take a spin on his wheel. He got as far as Axe Mann when he was compelled to seek shelter from the storm. The roads being badly washed he found it necessary, in order to reach home in time, to come down on the railroad track, which was considerable of a contract, as his wheel weighs about two hundred pounds, but by perservance he reached town about five o'clock with his machine badly used up. When we saw him, he was in front of Dr. J. L. Seibert's office with the Doctor's kit of surgical instruments making such repairs as were necessary to continue on his way to Curtin street, and he himself looked as if he had taken several headers in as many mud puddles.

—Here is a story for our city newspaper correspondents. On the highest point of the road leading from Milesburg to Beirley's there has existed, for some time a swampy place in the road. There seems to be no foundation to the public highway and persons are stationed at the point to warn travelers to beware lest they sink out of sight. Saturday morning as Wm. F. Powell was coming towards Bellefonte with a load of shingles and hoop poles he encountered the treacherous quick sand and in less time than William could say Jack Robison his horses went down and also the wagon, the horses ears were yet to be seen and the top of the hoop poles, but the wagon, Oh! where was it; William stared in utter amazement at his calamity, but he says he didn't say any naughty word because there was no person there to hear him at the time it occurred.
